“ The time has gone by when an eminent lawyer, in full practice, can take a class of students into his office and become their teacher. Once that was practicable, but now it is not. The consequence is that law schools are now a necessity.”—THE LATE CHIEF-JUSTICE WAITE.

“ There is little, if any, dispute now as to the relative merit of education by means of law schools, and that to be got by mere practical training or apprenticeship as an attorney's clerk. Without disparagement of mere practical advantages, the verdict of the best informed is in favor of the schools.”—REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON LEGAL EDUCATION TO THE AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION, AUGUST 21, 1879, AT SARATOGA, N. Y.

Professor BRYCE, in “ The American Commonwealth,” attributes the superior attainments of the members of the legal profession in the United States “ to the extraordinary excellence of many of the law schools.”

Mr. HERON, of Dublin, in his work on the History of Jurisprudence, declares that in the matter of legal reform, and in that of legal authorship, the United States have surpassed England, and he attributes the fact “ to the superior legal education which the American lawyers receive, and to the schools of law established throughout the United States.” Department of Law.

THE Department of Law was opened in 1859. From the first it has been the constant endeavor of the Faculty to make the instruction imparted and the advantages afforded equal to any attainable elsewhere in the country. No effort will be spared to make it deserve in the future a prosperity like that it has hitherto enjoyed. A spacious building, to which a large addition was made during the past year, is devoted to its accommodation, and contains ample debating and society rooms. In every respect the conveniences of the Department are exceptionally good. The course of instruction for the degree of Bachelor of Laws is a graded course extending over a period of two college years; the course for the degree of Master of Laws requires an additional year.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

If the person applying for admission intends to be a candidate for a degree at the end of his course, he must be not less than eighteen years of age, and must pass such examination in respect to general education as shall satisfy the Faculty that his educational attainments will justify his entering upon the practice of the law when his legal studies are completed. Examinations will be held in the Lecture Room, in the Law Building, at 2 P. M., on Friday and Saturday, September 29 and 30, 1893. The examination on the first of these days will have reference to general education, and will be on the subjects hereinafter named. The examination on the second day will have reference to legal education, and is confined to candidates for advanced standing. Applicants for advanced standing are required to be present at both of these examinations. Candidates are required to present themselves on these days, as they are expected to be in attendance on the first day of the term, at which time the regular course of instruction will begin. To provide for cases in which it is absolutely impossible for the candidate to be present at this time, supplementary examinations will be held at such times as may be determined upon by the Faculty, but no excuse, except of an urgent character, will be accepted for failure to appear at the first examination.

For many years no prior reading in law was required of candidates for admission to the junior class. The Faculty are of the opinion, however, that for the first year, at least, more positive benefit is received from lectures and more positive advancement in law made, by students who, before coming, have read the Commentaries of Blackstone, than by those who are beginners here. It is not required that the student shall spend any time in a law office before applying for admission. By private study he can easily obtain sufficient legal knowledge to prepare himself for his work here.

Before admission to the Department every student is required to present to the Dean of the Faculty the Treasurer's receipt for payment of the matriculation fee and annual fee. It is essential, therefore, that a candidate for admission should apply first to the Steward of the University at his office in University Hall, register his name as a student in the Department of Law, and pay his fees to the Treasurer. He is then entitled to apply for admission, and, in case of rejection, the money paid preliminary to the examination will be refunded by the Treasurer.

ADMISSION TO JUNIOR CLASS.

Graduates of approved colleges are admitted as candidates for degrees without preliminary examinations on producing their diplomas.

Matriculates of colleges and students who have completed an academical or high-school course, and who present a certificate or diploma from the academy or school, are admitted without examination in English branches, and are only required to pass an examination on the portions of Blackstone's Commentaries indicated below.

All other candidates for a degree are required to pass examinations as follows :

1. Arithmetic and Geography. •
2. Spelling, Grammar, and the Art of Composition.
3. United States History, and English History. Ransome's Short History of England, or Green's History of the English People, is recommended as affording the student a proper preparation for the examination in English History.
4. The following portions of Blackstone's Commentaries (exclusive of editor's notes):
 - Book I (exclusive of Chapters 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, and 11);
 - Book III (exclusive of Chapters 5, 6, 15, 16, and 17);
 - Book IV.

In case the candidate for admission has not studied Blackstone's

Commentaries, he may be admitted on condition that he makes up this study during his course.

Book II is used in the instruction given in the Department; and for that reason it is not included in the requirements for admission.

The Faculty recommend the study of Judge Cooley's edition, that being the edition used during the junior year.

The examinations are conducted in writing; and from the papers submitted, the Faculty judge of the applicant's knowledge of spelling, grammar, and the art of composition.

Inasmuch as many present themselves a long time after completing their school education, it may be said that the examination will not be technical. The object is not to ascertain the amount of school-book knowledge which the candidate possesses, but to ascertain the results of his previous training, and his present practical capacity and ability to appreciate the technical study of law.

ADMISSION TO ADVANCED STANDING.

Candidates for advanced standing are examined on whatever subjects they may offer themselves for examination on; the examination not being restricted to the subjects included in the junior year, but being allowed as well on the subjects, embraced in the senior year. This examination is not a final one on the subjects offered, but the candidate must satisfy the Faculty that he has made sufficient progress in his study of the law to justify his admission to the senior class. He should have studied law eighteen months before applying, but any person admitted to practice as an attorney at the bar of any State is entitled to admission to the Senior class without examination. Before graduation every student is required to pass satisfactory examinations on all subjects included in the course.

ADMISSION OF SPECIAL STUDENTS.

As students come to the University who have been reading law for a considerable period before making application for admission to the Department of Law, but whose reading has not been sufficiently extensive to bring them within the rule for admission to the senior class, it has been thought best to allow such students, in exceptional cases, to become special students, with the privilege of pursuing a select course of study, but without the privilege of being enrolled as candidates for a degree at the end of their term of residence. They are allowed, under the guidance of the Faculty, to select subjects from the courses of both years.

ASSIGNMENT OF SEATS.

Students are allowed to select seats in the lecture room in the order in which they pay their fees to the Treasurer; and each student is expected to occupy, during the season, the seat selected. No student will be assigned a seat or entered on the rolls of the Department until his dues are paid.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

THE LECTURE COURSE.

It is the design of the Department to give instruction that shall fit students for practice in any part of the country. The course of instruction embraces the several branches of Constitutional, International, Maritime, Commercial, and Criminal Law, Medical Jurisprudence, and the Jurisprudence of the United States, and includes such instruction in Common Law and Equity Pleading, Evidence, and Practice, as will lay a substantial foundation for practice in all departments of law.

The second year of the University School of Music, established and conducted by the University Musical Society of the University of Michigan, will open October 2, 1893. In the future, as in the past, the School will be conducted upon the most approved educational basis, and its aim will be the development of scholarly musicians.

AND THE ART OF CONDUCTING.

MUSIC IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND CHURCH MUSIC

Will be given, as well as occasional lectures on kindred topics by members of the University Faculties.

For Catalogue and further particulars address the Director,

ALBERT A. STANLEY, A. M.,
Professor of Music, University of Michigan.

inasmuch as they have been over the subjects of the junior year, are encouraged to attend the lectures delivered to the junior class so far as they may be able so to do.

RECITATIONS AND EXAMINATIONS.

The members of both classes are examined daily throughout the year on the lectures delivered. In addition to this work the classes are divided into sections and required to recite daily upon the lectures, after the manner adopted in the text-book instruction, thereby securing a thorough knowledge of the subjects treated during the year.

At the end of the first year the members of the junior class are subjected to an oral and written examination on the lectures delivered during the year, and their promotion to the senior class is dependent on the manner in which they pass such examination. The examination of the junior class at the end of the year is final on the subjects of that year.

At the end of the second year the members of the senior class are required to pass satisfactory oral and written examinations on the subjects lectured on during the year.

The Faculty do not hesitate to drop a student from the rolls at any time during the year, when satisfied that such student is neglecting his work and not conforming to the requirements of the Department.

TEXT-BOOK INSTRUCTION.

In addition to the instruction by lectures is the instruction by text-book.

The members of the junior class are required to attend daily recitations in Cooley's edition of Blackstone's Commentaries (Book II), and in Anson on Contracts, under Professor KNOWLTON; in Stephen's Rules on Pleading, under Professor GRIFFIN; in Lube's Equity Pleading, under Professor THOMPSON; and in Bills and Notes, under Professor MECHEM.

Members of the senior class are required to attend recitations in Heard's Criminal Pleading, and those who come from Code States are expected to attend regular recitations in Maxwell on Code Pleading, under Mr. JOHNSON; and they will find the instruction thus obtained invaluable in their subsequent practice. Students from States where the reformed procedure has not been introduced may or may not, at their option, attend such recitations.

Satisfactory examinations must be passed by the members of both classes in the text-books used.

Each class is divided into five sections, in order that due attention may be given to the individual student.

THE STUDY OF LEADING CASES.

As much benefit can be derived from a proper study of what are known as Leading Cases, and as it is desirable that students should be familiar with the more important of these cases, the members of the junior class are required to make a study of Leading Common Law Cases.

ELOCUTION AND ORATORY.

It is important for those who study the law with a view of becoming advocates, that they should give attention to the subject of forensic eloquence, the better to equip them for the performance of their duties as advocates. It is a mistake to suppose that excellence in speaking is simply a gift of nature, and not the result of patient and persistent labor and study.

The following courses, given by Professor TRUEBLOOD, are optional; but, when a student has elected a course; he is required to complete it. Failure to do so will affect his standing at graduation.

TO THE JUNIOR CLASS.

1. Elocution. Exercises in vocal culture, breathing, position and gesture; elements of quality and force of voice, with their application to choice passages from the orators.

2. Elocution. Exercises in vocal culture, continued; principles of action; elements of pitch and time, and emphasis, and their application to representative selections.

TO THE SENIOR CLASS.

3. Study of Forensic Orators and Oratory. Lectures on methods of public address and sources of power of the orator; study of representative orations.

4. Oral Discussions. Designed to develop readiness of extemporization. Practical application of the principles of formal logic. Leading questions of the day debated in class. Lectures on argumentation and persuasion.

THE POST GRADUATE COURSE.

In October, 1889, the Board of Regents established in the Law Department a Post Graduate Course, upon the completion of which the degree of Master of Laws is conferred. The requirements for admission to this course are given on page 18.

The following course of study is pursued by candidates for the degree of Master of Laws:

Students recite and are examined on the subjects enumerated above, under the direction of Mr. JOINSON, and, in addition, are required to prepare a thesis on some subject approved by the Faculty, which thesis must be submitted at least two months prior to Commencement.

The members of the junior and senior classes are not allowed to attend the lectures given to the post-graduate students, except that members of the senior class may attend, if they desire, the lectures on mining law and patent law. Post-graduate students are, however, allowed to attend the lectures given to the junior and senior classes.

CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY AND POLITICAL SCIENCE.

It seems to be conceded now that the law should be studied in a law school, and that the law school should be connected with a university, where students may avail themselves of opportunities for the study of such other branches of learning as are of allied significance.

It is believed that students in the Department of Law may derive great benefit from the instruction given on kindred subjects in the Department of Literature, Science, and the Arts. Students who first obtain permission from the Law Faculty, and also make special application to the Registrar of the Department of Literature, Science, and the Arts, are allowed to attend lectures delivered in that department, free of charge. But the Law Faculty reserve the right to require such students to give up any or all studies they may be pursuing in the other department, whenever it appears that the pursuit of these studies is attended with an unsatisfactory performance of the duties required in the Department of Law. Among the subjects regarded as particularly suitable for law students the following may be named: Political and Constitutional History of England; Constitutional History and Constitutional Law of the United States; Comparative Constitutional Law; History of the Middle Ages; Elements of International Law; History of Treaties; The Social, Sanitary, and Economic Sciences.

PRACTICE COURT.

The Regents of the University have recently determined to establish within the Department a Practice Court. During the year '93-'94, two courses of instruction will be offered in Practice Court work.

(a) Practice under the Common Law.

(b) Practice under the Code.

Every member of the senior class will be required to elect one of these courses. Practical experience will be given the student in the drawing of papers in a cause, the empanelling of juries, and the examination of witnesses. In fact, every step will be taken from the commencement of a suit to final judgment. Issues of facts will be tried as in actual practice, and the student will be required to do for himself, under the direction of his instructor, the work of the law office and court room. It is believed that the Practice Court will afford the students an opportunity of combining theory and practice under such conditions that he will gain a clearer insight into matters of practice than students ordinarily obtain who study in offices. This work will be under the direction of a member of the Faculty.

MOOT AND CLUB COURTS.

Moot Courts are held from time to time during the year, in which students discuss cases previously assigned them for that purpose by the professors. These courts are presided over by the professor lecturing for the day, who, at the conclusion, reviews the arguments, and gives his decision upon the points involved. The effort here is to make not merely theoretical but practical lawyers; not to teach principles merely, but how to apply them. To this end, the Moot Courts are made the forum for the discussion of such practical questions as most frequently arise in a professional career at the bar; and the attention of the Faculty is directed not less to the application of the points discussed to actual cases, than to the elucidation of the legal questions. An opportunity is afforded all the senior students to participate in these courts.

Moot Courts are conducted on the theory that certain facts are true, and that the only subject open to discussion is the rule of law to be applied to them. The student having obtained from the Faculty a statement of facts, is required to prepare pleadings, and draw up a brief in which the rules of law are stated under appropriate divisions and sustained by authorities which he proposes to rely upon in his argument.

Club Courts are organizations among the students, arranged and conducted by themselves, with such assistance from the members of the Faculty as may be desired. Records are prepared and causes tried, as in actual practice. These courts are found alike interesting and useful to those who participate in them. The Club Courts are open to members of either the senior or junior class, and students are strongly recommended to connect themselves with some one of these organizations. There are also two flourishing literary societies established and conducted by the students of law for the purposes of literary culture.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION.

BACHELOR OF LAWS.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws is conferred on such students as pursue the full course of two years in this Department, and pass an approved oral and written examination. It is also conferred upon those who, having attended another law school for a period equal to one year of our course, or practiced law for one term under a license from the highest court of general jurisdiction in any State where the requirements for admission to the bar are equal to those in Michigan, also pursue one year's course in this Department and pass a like examination.

Special cases depending on previous reading in a law office for a considerable period are decided by the Faculty on application accompanied by a showing of the facts.

Each candidate for a degree is required to prepare and deposit with the Faculty, before the commencement of the second semester of his senior year, a dissertation, not less than forty folios in length, upon some legal topic selected by himself. The dissertation must be satisfactory in matter, form, and style; and the student presenting it will be examined upon it. It must be printed, on a typewriter or otherwise, and a copy left with the Department. Special rates can be obtained for doing this work, and two or three dollars will cover the expense of printing and binding. In special cases the Faculty will not insist on this requisition, if it should appear to be a burden to a needy student.

MASTER OF LAWS.

The degree of Master of Laws is conferred on any graduate of this Department, who pursues the study of Law in this University for one year after graduation, and who completes to the satisfaction of the Law Faculty such a course of study as may be required; and the privilege thus extended to graduates of this Department is also extended to the graduates of other Law Schools, who can satisfy the Faculty of this Department that the course of study for which they obtained their degree was equivalent to the course of study required for the corresponding degree in this Department.

CERTIFICATES OF ATTENDANCE.

When a person is connected with the school for a period not entitling him to graduate, he may, on application to the Dean of the Faculty, receive an official certificate of attendance, which states the time of his attendance and the degree of his attainments.

MASTER'S DEGREE IN ARTS, PHILOSOPHY, SCIENCE, OR LETTERS.

A graduate of the Department of Literature, Science, and the Arts, who is a candidate for a degree in the Department of Law, may by permission of the Faculties of the two Departments, become at the same time a candidate for a Master's degree in Arts, Philosophy, Science, or Letters. The privilege thus extended to graduates of this University is also extended to graduates of other colleges who satisfy the Faculty of the Department of Literature, Science, and the Arts, that the courses of study for which they obtained their first degree are equivalent to the courses of study required for the corresponding degree at this University.

Useful and desirable opportunities are thus afforded to college graduates who wish to study law and at the same time to supplement their professional studies with a broader knowledge of other branches that will be helpful to them in their professional work.

It is understood, however, that, if the work in this Department is not satisfactory, the Law Faculty will require students of law to discontinue their studies for the Master's degree.

THE LAW LIBRARY.

The Law Library contains 10,744 volumes, and includes the reports of every State in the Union, the reports of the Federal courts, and a very excellent collection of the English, Irish, and Canadian reports. It is kept supplied with new reports as they are issued, and in this way is made as good a working library for students as could be desired. In addition to the reports the library contains an extensive collection of treatises on American and English law, and copies of the statutes of the several States and of the United States.

The library is open for consultation by students from 8 A. M. to 12 M., from 1:30 to 5:30 P. M., and from 7 to 9 P. M., during the academic year, except on Saturday afternoons and evenings. Students are not permitted to take the books from the library building, but during the hours named are allowed free access to them.

The Honorable C. H. Buhl, of Detroit, recently presented a collection of 5,000 volumes of reports and text-books, known as the Buhl Law Library. This generous gift has made the library a most excellent one in which to pursue an extended study of jurisprudence.

The library was enriched some years ago by the gift of the valuable law library of the Honorable Richard Fletcher, formerly one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts.

The Journal of Jurisprudence (Edinburg), the Law Quarterly Review (London), the American Law Review, the American Law Register, the Criminal Law Magazine, the Albany Law Journal, the Central Law Journal, and the Federal Reporter are regularly taken and kept on file.

Students of the Department of Law are also allowed the use of the General Library of the University, which contains 65,492 volumes and 15,930 unbound pamphlets.

TEXT-BOOKS AND BOOKS OF REFERENCE.

Text-books and books of reference are very numerous, and students will find the professors ready to lend them aid in making proper selections. While several copies each of the leading text-books will be found in the library, it is exceedingly desirable that students should supply themselves with such as they may need at their rooms. They will find that it will greatly facilitate their studies to have at hand at all times such of the leading text-books as treat of the more important branches of law. It is also advisable for them, when able to do so, to provide themselves with a copy of the statutes of their State. By so doing no loss will be incurred, as the books will be found essential in subsequent practice. But the only books students are required to provide themselves with are those already named as being used for purposes of text-book instruction.

The books mentioned in the following list may be used to advantage upon the subjects named. As a general thing any one of those mentioned in each department will answer the necessities of the student, and, whenever a preference exists, it is given to the one first in order on the list. But in the department of constitutional history all the writers named may be read, or consulted, as for the most part covering different periods of time.

ANNUAL FEE.—For Michigan students, twenty-five dollars; for all others thirty-five dollars.

DIPLOMA FEE.—For all alike, ten dollars.

The annual fee is paid at the beginning of the first year, and of every subsequent year of attendance. The text-books which the members of the Junior class are required to purchase, cost not to exceed twenty dollars, and those necessarily purchased by the members of the Senior class cost about half that amount.

Students obtain board and lodging in private families for from three to five dollars per week. Clubs are also formed, in which the cost of board is from one dollar and a half to two dollars and a half a week for each student. There are no dormitories and no commons connected with the University. Students on arriving in Ann Arbor can obtain information in regard to rooms and board by calling at the Steward's office.

The University cannot furnish employment to needy students who seek to earn money to enable them to defray their expenses in whole or

Those who desire any further information concerning this Department, may address letters of inquiry to the Dean of the Department of Law, Ann Arbor, Mich.
